steve roden is a visual and sound artist from los angeles. his work includes painting, drawing, sculpture, film/video, sound installation, text and performance.

roden's working process uses various forms of specific notation (words, musical scores, maps, etc.) and translates them through self invented systems into scores, which then influence the process of painting, drawing, sculpture, and composition. these scores, rigid in terms of their parameters and rules, are also full of holes for intuitive decisions and left turns. the inspirational source material becomes a kind of formal skeleton that the abstract finished works are built upon.

in the visual works, translations of information such as text and maps, become rules and systems for generating visual actions such as color choices, number of elements, and image building.

in the sound works, singular source materials such as objects, architectural spaces, and field recordings, are abstracted through humble electronic processes to create new audio spaces, or 'possible landscapes'. the sound works present themselves with an aesthetic roden has described as "lower case" - sound concerned with subtlety and the quiet activity of listening.

roden has been exhibiting his visual and sound works since the mid 1980's, and has had numerous solo and group exhibitions internationally, including: the mercosur biennial porto alegre brazil, centre georges pompidou paris, the san diego museum of contemporary art, the ucla hammer museum los angeles, the museum of contemporary art EMST athens, the singuhr-horgalerie in parochial, berlin, center for book arts new york, the kitchen new york, pomona college museum of art, la casa encendida madrid, susanne vielmetter LA and berlin projects, studio la citta gallery verona italy, and others. in 2010, curator howard fox organized the exhibition "steve roden / in between: a 20 year survey", which opened at the armory center for the arts in pasadena, and was accompanied by a full color catalog.

roden has performed his soundworks at various arts spaces and experimental music festivals worldwide including: the serpentine gallery london, the san francisco museum of modern art, the walker art center, minneapolis, the dca dundee scotland, redcat theater los angeles, the crawford gallery cork ireland, as well as performance tours of brazil and japan. recent performances include john cage's cartridge music with mark trayle at the norton simon museum in pasadena, and a tribute to rolf julius at the hamburger bahnhof in berlin. since 1993, he has released numerous recordings on various labels worldwide.

in 2011, atlanta based dust to digital published roden's book "i listen to the wind that obliterates my traces", a collection of music related photographs from 1860-1930, along with 2 discs of rare recordings of early american music, and an essay by roden related to archiving, collecting and listening.

recent site specific sound works have included MOCA at the pacific design center for an exhibition of paintings by mark rothko, the henry art gallery's james turrell skyspace, the mak center for art and architecture schindler house in los angeles, a live collaboration with stephen vitiello in a room of 50 stainless steel sculpture by donald judd at chinati, daniel libeskind's run run shaw new media building at city university of hong kong, a sound/sculpture/drawing installation for thomas u. walter's 1848 building at girard college philadelphia for the hidden city festival, and a permanent public artwork at hayvenhurst park, in west hollywood california.

roden received his mfa from art center college of design in pasadena, ca in 1989, and his bfa from otis parsons in los angeles in 1986. over the past 15 years he has taught both graduate and undergraduate courses at numerous southern california institutions including: ucla los angeles, art center college of design pasadena, otis college of art los angeles, claremont graduate school pomona, uc santa barbara, cal state long beach, and others. he has lectured and/or been a visiting artist at numerous universities including: harvard university, columbia college ny, uic chicago, usc los angeles, cal arts los angeles, san francisco art institute, university of texas austin, virginia commonwealth university, and others.

grants and awards include: chinati foundation artist in residence, foundation for contemporary arts artist grant, california community foundation & getty foundation mid career artist fellowship, DAAD short term music residency, nimoy artist in residence grant, city of los angeles cola award, city of pasadena individual artist grant, durfee foundation grant, california arts council visual artist grant.
